NAME DEDUCTIBLE ITEMS FOR AGED TAXPAYERS

Medicine and drug expenses for taxpayers 65 years and older will be fully deductible on this year's income tax returns.

The full deductibility of these expenses under the 1964 Revenue Act was pointed out today by Mr. J. G. Martin Jr., District Director of Internal Revenue. He said this will save elderly taxpayers about $10 million a year.

Under previous law, expenses for medicines and drugs were included in medical expenses to the extent they exceeded one percent of adjusted gross income.

Elimination of the one percent floor applies to the medicine and drug expenses of a taxpayer and his spouse if either is age 65 or over. It also applies to such expenses paid on behalf of dependent parents age 65 or over.

There are no other changes in the provisions regarding the deductibility of medical expenses Mr. Martin said. These expenses are fully deductible, subject to certain maximum limitations, for taxpayers 65 and over but are subject to a three percent floor for taxpayers under 65.

The one percent floor on medicine and drug expenses for taxpayers under 65 continues in effect, Mr. Martin said.

A "one hundred dollar deductible" provision on personal casualty and theft losses was part of the 1964 tax law.

As explained today by Mr. J. G. Martin Jr., District Director of Internal Revenue, the first $100 of each personal casualty or theft loss will not be deductible on Federal income tax returns. A husband and wife filing a joint return will have to meet but one $100 deductible limit for each separate casualty or theft in which they either jointly or separately suffer a loss. However, if they file separate returns, each will have to meet the $100 floor for each separate loss.

Business losses will continue to be fully deductible Mr. Martin said. In cases where there is damage to a car used for both business and pleasure, the $100 deductible will only apply to that portion of the loss charged to personal use.

Assume in such a case that the business loss is $250 and the personal loss is $300. The $250 loss attributable to the business use is fully deductible. However, the new law permits only $200 of the $300 personal part of the loss to be deducted on tax returns.

Mr. Martin said that the property losses arising from fire, storm or other casualty or theft are covered by the law. Deductions may be taken only on that part of the loss not reimbursed by insurance or otherwise.

TRAILERS MUST PAY AD VALOREM TAXES

According to rules and regulations on assessments on house trailers under House Bill 747, Laws of 1962, and House Bill 748, Laws of 1964, adopted by the State Tax Commission, owners of house trailers on foundations are required to pay ad valorem taxes and registration fees. ADDED PROPOSALS FOR OCTOBER 26 MILK ORDER HEARING

JACKSON, MISS. - The U. S. Department of Agriculture will consider additional proposals at a public hearing scheduled for October 26 at Jackson on a proposed new Federal milk order for Southern Mississippi, and amendment of the Mississippi Delta order. The new proposals are contained in a supplemental notice of hearing issued by USDA, October 7.

The original hearing notice of August 27, contained the proposals from Mississippi Milk Producers Association, Inc., petitioners for the hearing.

The hearing will open at 10:00 a. m., October 26, in the King Edward Hotel, 235 West Capital St., Jackson.

One of the additional proposals, from 12 handlers, 14 dairy farmers, and the Gulf Coast Dairywomen's Association, would add to the proposed Southern Mississippi marketing area the territory covered by the former Mississippi Gulf Coast order, which was terminated September 1. This area includes George, Greene, Hancock, Harrison, Jackson, Pearl River, and Stone Counties, Mississippi.

Individual handler pooling is also proposed, in lieu of market-wide pooling as was proposed by the cooperative associations petitioning for the hearing.

Another proposal, submitted by the Nuxubee Milk Producers Association, would combine the existing Mississippi Delta order and the proposed Southern Mississippi order.

Other major proposals, submitted by the Cooperative Creamery Association, would establish a new pricing provision for manufacturing (Class II) milk based on the Minnesota-Wisconsin series, revise the pooling requirements for distributing plants, and allow a cooperative association to be a handler of bulk tank milk from its members. Other changes proposed by handlers would reduce the bottling milk (Class I) price, and change certain classification and pooling provisions.

After considering evidence presented at the hearing, USDA may recommend adoption of a new milk order for Southern Mississippi, and amendment of the Mississippi Delta order. Producers, handlers, and others in the area concerned then would be given opportunity to file exceptions to the proposal. All exceptions received would be considered by USDA before issuing its "final decision" which would be submitted to producers in the separate areas for approval.

LAKEHORE AND CLERMONT HARBOR NEWS

By Aline (Poe Wee) Courage

The coon found on our beaches is small, harmless creature but there is one species that can open waters and eat the meat.

Over the past week, fish have been caught off the R. H. and Highway bridges. On the highway bridges they are being caught on the east side according to the fisherman who fishes at that spot regularly. He had some nice specks, sheephead and flounders.

The annual club championship ended last month with Dick Merritt again taking the men's title and Mrs. James Durham of New Orleans repeating as women's winner. Chairman Soule handed out the handsome silver prizes with extra nice engraving before the bumper crowd.

The girls of the 4-H of Gulfview School took Monday with their leader Mrs. Marcia Hughes. They voted for officers and are as follows:

Gibbs E. Moran of Pearl River, La., says he loves his hunting and fishing and there is plenty of both in his neck of the woods.

There are a lot of our local hunters who hunt in Louisiana and they pass this information on to them.

A king and queen of each grade of the Gulfview School have been voted on to take part in the Halloween party Friday night, Oct. 30. They are:

A portion of Saline Wildlife Management Area, recently purchased by the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission, will be closed to all hunting during the 1964-65 season.

The closed area is located in LaSalle Parish southeast of Calaquilla Lake. It is bounded on the east by the Hunt Oil Co. road, on the northwest by Hwy. 28, on the south and southwest by Saline Bayou and Saline Lake, and on the north by the Big Bayou-Catahoula Levee.

Just a reminder to local fresh water fishermen, the general laws and regulations on the catching of fresh water fish are as follows:

There is no size limits on game fish.

Bag Limits:

Black Bass: 15 per day.

Striped Bass: 30 per day.

Croaker or White Perch: 30 per day.

President - Barbara Lafontaine; vice president - Patty Carver; secretary-treasurer - Debby Roberts; reporter - Karen Poolson; recreation leaders - Karen Garcia and Polly Walman.

A king and queen of each grade of the Gulfview School have been voted on to take part in the Halloween party Friday night, Oct. 30. They are:

The Bay St. Louis Division meeting of the Bay Scout executives will be held Oct. 22 at 7:30 p. m. at the Legion Home. If you are interested in scout work, you are cordially invited to attend. Buck Diebler is chairman of this district. He and his assistants are doing a good job in advancing scouting in our area. A helping hand from four troops in this area and adults is always appreciated. There are leaders are always needed.

IT'S COTTON PAYOFF TIME

Mississippi farmers have spent seven to nine months and millions of dollars producing another great cotton crop. Now it's payoff time. Farmers are picking, ginning and marketing the crop, the final test of its worth to the growers and to the state. Marketing the cotton crop is the last step for the producer and one of the most important.

NASA News..

HUNTSVILLE, ALA. - The flight of the seventh Saturn I vehicle (SA-7) was better than any other in the Saturn I rocket development program - and all previous flights were highly successful. The 100 percent record in the Saturn I program is not paralleled in launch vehicle development programs.

Preliminary evaluation of the SA-7 flight data by the NASA Marshall Space Flight Center here indicates that all test objectives were accomplished.

SA-7 was launched from Complex 37B, John F. Kennedy Space Center, Fla., at 11:22 a. m., EST, September 18, and a payload of about 37,000 pounds plus propellant residuals was placed in an orbit having a perigee of 112 statute miles, an apogee of 145 statute miles, and a period of 88.6 minutes. The satellite, consisting of the Apollo command and service modules, instrument unit and second (SIV) rocket stage, reentered the atmosphere over the Indian Ocean at 6:59 a. m., EST, September 22 following 59 orbits.

The satellite orbited 3 days, 19 hours, 37 minutes, approximately 0.8 of a day longer than predicted. Propulsion systems performance was within one degree of predicted. The guidance and control system, being flown for the first time in its final Saturn I form, functioned as expected.

Early data indicates the payload tumble and roll rates were well below six degrees per second, which meets requirements of the Pegasus meteoroid satellite to be launched on the remaining three Saturn vehicles. The non-propulsive venting system was installed in the second stage to accomplish this (SEE SA-7 press kit, September 13, 1964). Roll and tumble rates, however, should be even further reduced by additional improvements to be incorporated in following vehicles.

In other areas, structural, electrical, and environmental systems worked satisfactorily and telemetry data received at ground stations was as good or better than previous Saturn I flights.

Vehicle instrumentation performance was excellent. Of the 1238 measurements flown on the two stage and instrument unit, only 12 were considered total failures.

Similar results were achieved in Apollo spacecraft telemetry. All spacecraft objectives were successfully accomplished and all spacecraft subsystems functioned satisfactorily, according to the NASA-Manned Spacecraft Center.

No attempt was made to recover the eight booster on-board cameras which impacted some 500 miles downrange. The recovery ship was pulled out of the area the day before the launch because of Hurricane Gladys.

The pictures from the one on-board television camera showing the jettisoning of the Apollo launch escape system tower and the separation and ignition of the SIV stage were good, exceeding past performances.

NEW ORLEANS, LA. - The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has awarded two contract modifications totaling $14,754,418 to the Boeing Company's Aerospace Division to develop additional hardware and conduct a load-testing program for the Saturn V first stage (S-IC).

Boeing is under contract to NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center, Huntsville, Ala., to develop, manufacture, assemble and test 10 S-IC boosters at Marshall's Michoud Operations in New Orleans, La.

Under the first supplemental agreement, valued at $2,018,418, Boeing will design, develop and manufacture components for the S-IC stage umbilical connections and related hardware. These umbilical connections convey necessary electrical power, instrumentation and other lines to the vehicle on the pad until launch time.

The second modification, to

"SCHOOL LUNCH SERVES YOUTH" IS THEME

"School Lunch Serves Youth" will be the theme of the 1964 observance of National School Lunch Week, October 11-17, 1964.

President Lyndon B. Johnson has assigned an official proclamation for observance of the week "to promote public understanding and awareness of the significance of the school lunch program to the child, to the home, to the farm, to industry and to the nation."

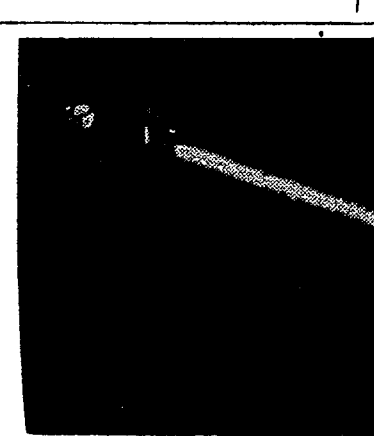

School Food services are the largest, single segment of the food service industry. Last year, more than 16 million children consumed more than 2.7 billion meals in schools operating under the federal school lunch program. J. M. Tubb, State Superintendent of Education, said that over 51 million of these meals were served in Mississippi alone.

Approximately 68,500 schools throughout the nation are participating in the National School Lunch Program, 1,000 of these are in Mississippi. Although the Federal Government plays a role in the financing of these operations, the administration of school food services remains under the control of local school boards and communities.

Food used in schools operating under the national program last year totaled 876 million dollars with only 188 million dollars worth supplied by the Federal Government. These foods provided by the U. S. Department of Agriculture cost $11,836,000, directs the Boeing Company to conduct a structural static load-testing program for the Saturn V booster, to assure structural integrity of the 7.5 million pound thrust stage.

Work under the first contract will be performed by Boeing's Launch Systems Branch at the company's Wichita, Kan., facility and at the Michoud Operations. The load-testing program will be conducted at both Michoud and the Marshall Center.

The two modifications increase the value of Boeing's S-IC contract to $516,206,009.

LASER FILM AVAILABLE - Development of the amazing laser and its potential in an infinite number of fields, is depicted in a new film, "The Conquest of Light." The film shows how a light ten million times brighter than the surface of the sun is generated by the laser. Its potential to carry messages over gigantic distances, perform delicate surgery, weld microscopic wires, are only a few of the many areas covered in the film. "The laser, discovered only 6 years ago, is one of science," says J. C. Dabney, "Scientists at the Bell Laboratories are investigating its possibility as a major means of communication." The color film runs nine minutes. It's available free of charge to church, school and interested in showing the film should contact their local Southern Bell Telephone office.

Long Beach won with a 14-12 score over previously undefeated Bay High Friday night at Tiger Stadium in a Gulf Coast Conference football game.

The Bearcats of Coach Jerry Taylor, chalked up their third triumph to go with defeats, struck for paydirt the first time they got the ball and were never behind.
